Notes from the president

I hope that everyone had a very merry Christmas and that you will continue to have a great 2018.

I guess most of us have put any antenna construction projects on hold until spring or later because it sure has not been arm enough for any outside work lately.

Don't forget that the TARC Newbie Roundtable is starting up this Sunday at 9:00 pm. That is January 7th. Lets all try to check in and add your two cents worth.

The CW class is coming along well. All of the folks who started are still doing well. It was hard to find the time to practice with all of the activities happening just before Christmas but we hopefully will be able to get a bit more practice.

I hope that the weather we get in the next few days turns out to be less than what has been predicted.
